BOGUS BASIN TO EXPAND TO FULL OPERATIONS ON SATURDAY, DECEMBER 18th

With the holidays approaching, early season skiing and snowboarding conditions are “in great shape”

BOISE, Idaho – December 16, 2021 Bogus Basin announced today that ski and snowboard operations will fully open for the season on Saturday, December 18th. The non-profit recreation area, which received over 35” of snow in the last week, will add the Superior Express and Bitterroot chairlifts to the seven lifts already in operation.

The 2021/22 Winter Season at Bogus Basin began on November 20th, exclusively on machine made snow. Snowmaking efforts continue at the mountain, boosting early season coverage in time for the upcoming holidays.

“The recent storm left the mountain in great shape, especially on the groomed runs,” said Director of Skier Services Jamie Zolber. “We do advise guests to watch out for unmarked obstacles while enjoying their early season turns.”

Managing the flow of guests remains a priority at the area, which began capping the quantity of daily lift tickets sold last year. This strategy helped the non-profit encourage visits during off-peak hours, improving the overall guest experience. Advance, online lift ticket purchases are recommended; a schedule of ticket release dates is available here.
